

Snake dies after bit by a baby

Tel Aviv, January 28: In a bizarre incident a baby survived even after bit by a poisonous snake, but the snake died after the baby bit off its head.

The 1-year-old, named Imad Gadir from Shfaram in northern Israel, found a 35-centimetre-long snake in his room on Thursday morning. The child caught the snake but the snake had bit him several times. When the mother reached there after listening to baby's cries she was stunned to see that the infant was chewing snake's head with his few teeth.

Mother was horrified fearing the child would die of snake's poison but on the contrary the baby remained save whereas the snake died.
